

British Showjumping UKCC Qualifications consideration for Accreditation for Prior Experiential Learning (APEL)

Accreditation of Prior Experiential Learning is a process that enables you to receive recognition for skills and knowledge you already possess that have not been previously assessed or awarded credit. By completing this form and stating your previous coaching, teaching and related experiences, your prior learning and professional capabilities can be formally recognised and taken into account to gain entry at an appropriate qualification.

Each application will be considered individually and the outcome of accreditation will be different for each person, according to their skills and experiences. All applications will be considered according to:

- Authenticity - that the applicant has undertaken what is claimed
- Directness - that the experience is specific, relevant and has been identified
- Breadth - that the experience and skills have taken place in a showjumping context with a range of clients and horses
- Currency - the experience is sufficiently recent to be relevant (within the past 8 years) Credit may simply allow entry onto the beginning of a qualification or entry with modified learning programme.

Please complete this form and return it with a completed UKCC application to Sportteam@britishshowjumping.co.uk
